

Campaigner

No. 20

SPECIAL REPORT

Kennedy Murder Conspiracy Out Into Open

by Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr.
National Chairman, U.S. Labor Party

$1.00
September 7, 1978

As Governor John Connally testified yesterday before a congressional committee of inquiry, the entire fabric of the Warren Commission myth of "Oswald, the Lone Assassin," evaporated before what was to become, that evening, a nationwide television audience.

Connally's testimony was corroborated both by his wife and by conclusive, supporting material evidence. It was established that the bullet which struck Governor Connally was fired moments later than the previous bullet, which had struck President Kennedy in the neck. This fact suffices to prove that at least four bullets were fired during that interval; the entire Warren Commission case had hung on a desperate effort to assume that Oswald had been capable of firing only three.

Since a definitely known additional bullet — in addition to those striking occupants of the Kennedy vehicle — had also been fired, at least four or five bullets were fired during that interval, requiring at least two professional snipers. There is no longer any basis for popular credibility to the "lone assassin" argument that no conspiracy was involved.

Since the names of the two (or three) assassins involved are not presently known — at least to honest citizens and investigators — uncovering the now-established conspiracy to kill President Kennedy must proceed from follow-through on known leads concerning Oswald and other elements of the immediate operational environment of the assassination plot itself.

We have, at present, three crucial, initial leads to uncovering the conspiracy. These elements include the proven case of "two Oswalds," the Garrison investigation of persons and entities linked to the Bronfman Permindex organization, and the interlocking deployment of organized crime and Cuban right-winger forces in the environment of the assassination. As a whole, these three sets of leads bring us to eminently relevant discoveries and conclusions.

The fact of the "cover up" which was certified by the Warren Commission coincides directly, by implication, with the kind of evidence developed through tracing the foregoing three leads. Although the witting complicity of the Warren Commission members proper is not indicated, the complicity of parties among those preparing the submitted evidence is firmly established. This, as we shall indicate here in summary, establishes a meaningful connection between crucial aspects of the "cover up" and parties identified by tracing out the three sets of indicated leads.

The principal, obstructing difficulty confronting the qualified police intelligence or similar investigator at the outset is that the parties indicated as responsible for conspiracy contributing to the Kennedy assassination include, at first glance, powerful interests which had been long associated with Joseph Kennedy, Sr.

and his family, and had been among the principal promoters of Kennedy's accession to the Presidency. At first glance, all the evidence in hand appears to be discredited on compelling grounds of motive.

To get directly to the point: the Cecil family was not only a patron of the Kennedy family, from Joe Kennedy, Sr. on down, but was intermarried with the Kennedy family. The Rothschild-centered City of London forces had been closely allied with the Kennedys, and had helped considerably to maintain and increase the Kennedy family fortune. Was it therefore conceivable that key Zionist and "Mafia" subsidiaries of the Cecils and Rothschilds could have conspired to murder President Kennedy — or would have then tolerated the continued existence of the parties responsible after that deed? Is it conceivable that Senator Edward Kennedy should continue to be an agent-of-influence for the same political forces which murdered — in fact — two of his older brothers?

It is that set of facts respecting motive which tends to block otherwise-qualified police intelligence-grade investigators from accepting the significance of the Permindex and related leads to the Kennedy assassination. At first glance, and perhaps again, after a second and third, the contradictions make the Permindex angle "just too incredible."

Without the proper sort of reeducation in certain crucial aspects of modern political history, it would be probable that the present congressional inquiry would be diverted into nonsense-judgments, for reasons related to those which have stumped most honest, police intelligence-grade investigators. The truth emerges with a reading of the memoirs of Harold MacMillan, and with a correlated study of the reasons President Kennedy fired "that lunatic" Henry A. Kissinger.

The First Two Conspiracies

Any congressional investigation is confronted with two immediate sets of evidence of conspiracy. Most immediately, the evidence of four or more bullets proves conclusively the existence of a conspiracy in the act of assassination itself. Lee Harvey Oswald's personal history prior to the events in Dallas that day is another, important bit of conspiracy. The immediate question posed is whether there is any real connection between these two conspiracies, except that connection presumed and created in fact by the blunder of charging Oswald with the crime.

The center of the Oswald conspiracy is the "two Oswalds" case, a fact established beyond dispute.

A person bearing the credentials of "Lee Harvey Oswald" appeared in Mexico City, established a heavy trail for later investigators, establishing his presence in that location. During this same period, the person bearing these credentials applied for a visa to Cuba with the Cuban consulate. The applicant, was not the Lee Harvey Oswald later arrested in Dallas, Texas.

The story of featuring the "two Oswalds" intersects the career of a Lee Harvey Oswald whose adult life is bizarre, and includes a role as a stringer for both the FBI and CIA during the period he was acting as a representative of the "Fair Play for Cuba" organization — and later. In the course of, and following, the "Fair Play for Cuba" period, the actual Lee Harvey Oswald, replete with Russian-born wife, interested some highly interesting "leftist" and "liberal" circles, circles with deep, long-established connections to British secret intelligence.

The significance of this aspect of the matter was buried by the investigation conducted on behalf of the Warren Commission, just as the ballistic and related problems were covered over with despicable zeal.

According to Attorney Garrison's investigation, the Oswald conspiracy leads to a third set of connections, leads running directly to an entity known as Permindex. This is no irrelevant lead. Permindex, an organization established by the Canadian Bronfman interests, and headed by Bronfman representative Major Bloomfield, was expelled from Switzerland under French government pressure, for Permindex's funding of the right-wing organization conducting successive assassination attacks against President Charles de Gaulle. Individuals associated with a Permindex subsidiary, including persons sought for testimony by Attorney Garrison, have more recently come under investigations in connection with the kidnapping-assassination of former Italian Prime Minister Aldo Moro. That assassination has been publicly associated by authoritative spokesmen with the "Kissinger scenario" for Italy.

Evidence leading back to Permindex subsidiaries may not prove by itself that Permindex was directly and wittingly complicit in the Kennedy assassination deployments, but Permindex is scarcely above suspicion in matters pertaining to financing the operations of organizations engaged in attempted assassinations of heads of states and of other notables.

The Permindex connection has the significance of pointing directly and simultaneously to such assassination-capable groupings as Caribbean-pivoted organized crime in the U.S., as the Cuban right-wing exile groups, and to financial conduiting of "black funds" for the drug-running operations into the United States. It also directly intersects the top command of the "fascist international."

Garrison was on a track which any competent investigation of the Oswald-Ruby connection would have pursued to a conclusive finding — one way or another. The key knowledge the police intelligence investigator requires to guide him in Garrison's line of inquiry is background concerning the active alliance between certain elements of top-most Zionist circles and the "fascist international."

The "Nazi Zionists"

The charge made against Permindex and its subsidiaries in Italy was that it was funding various right-wing extremist groups, including the OAS in France and Spain, and various fascist groups in Italy and elsewhere. This charge is not properly astonishing. During the early 1960s, an Israeli intelligence colonel, Romania-born Zwi Alboudy, rated a top assassin of the Israeli intelligence service, was arrested and convicted in Spain, and sentenced for 30 years imprisonment for terrorist assassination activities linked with Zionist funding of OAS forces in Spain.

Alboudy was subsequently released from prison, in some arrangement whose exact details are not yet known, and became associated with Stern magazine, a leading political-intelligence operation against the government of Chancellor Helmut Schmidt today. The gentleman was later dropped from the Stern staff, with the best estimate given that his notoriety became intolerable. Currently, this gentleman is resident in New York City, and engaged in coordinating significant surveillance operations against the U.S. Labor Party in that city.

This sort of profascist activity by Zionist influences into Israel and by Israeli intelligence services is by no means exceptional. The government of Israel today is at the point of war with Syria in behalf of Begin's and Weitzman's alliance with a Lebanese Nazi organization, the Falange. The Falange was created by the Nazis during the 1930s, and headed by Hitler's personal appointee, Pierre Gemayel. According to most reliable sources intimately acquainted with Gemayel, he treasured the portrait of his admired Adolf Hitler well into the post-war period.

In a related matter, the disclosures that Baader-Meinhof terrorists Klar and Klein were agents of the Israeli intelligence service agency Mossad is not properly astonishing, in light of the Gianettini report and many other, corroborating, highly placed intelligence sources. The Mossad has been coordinating international terrorist activities since 1969, including the most notorious of the Arab terrorist groups.

The "Fascist International"

The present-day "fascist international" actually exists in an organized form. It is created by and controlled (most immediately) by what is known as the Eastern European branch of the Order of Malta. This branch is dominant among the "black" faction of the aristocratic families of Russia and Eastern European nations, including Yugoslavia, and is also the resident branch of the Maltese Order for Bavaria (Wittelsbach branch) and Lebanon, as well as having historical support among the "black nobility" of Italy.

Organizationally, this is the oldest surviving branch of the Maltese Order (the current, largest branches were recreated during the nineteenth century), and is distinguished from the other branches of the Order of Malta by the name, Sovereign Order of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem.

This branch of the order created the Nazi Party of Adolf Hitler in Bavaria and assigned to Hitler the bulk of the inner Nazi circle (Haushofer, Hess, Goering, Himmler, Rosenberg, et al.). Hitler was brought into influence in northern Germany through the intercession of those elements of German industry and finance which were controlled by City of London banking interests and City of London investment banking branches and connections in New York City. S.G. Warburg, the patron and mentor of Hjalmar Schacht, was most prominent in this, but also the Oppenheimers and Rothschilds. It was the same Jewish-highlighted City of London and New York interests which acted, on Schacht's request, to join the British monarchy to place Hitler into the Chancellery. The present connection of nominally Jewish, pro-British banking circles to the Nazi organizations of the Sovereign Order is no recent development.

The other principal Nazi organizations of the Eastern Sovereign Order were the Lebanese Falange and the Croatian Ustashi — the latter the most hideous criminal organization of World War II, and the Italian Nazi organization established in northern Italy following the Allied invasion.

Every other notable fascist organization of the 1920s and 1930s in Eastern Europe were also creations of the Eastern, Sovereign Order branch of the Maltese. Today, these fascist organizations are controlled from the United States and Canada, and deploy from here under the cover of the "Captive Nations" front organization.

That is the general nature of the way in which the Eastern, Sovereign Order branch of the Maltese runs the "fascist international" today. It was that fascist international that the Bronfman Permindex organization was caught, red-handed, in funding during the early 1960s, during the period of the Kennedy assassination deployment.

Drugs and Mafia

The same element operating partially under cover of Zionist circles has primary control of the illegal drug traffic into the United States, controls the Cuban right-wing exiles out of, traditionally, Bimini in the British West Indies, and runs organized crime in the United States. The Canadian command of this operation intersects the top banking circles of Canada, including the Bronfman circles, and coordinates aspects of its operations through the "fascist international" organizations in such locations as Toronto and Montreal. Toronto is the control point for the major portion of heroin traffic into the central northern U.S. states, largely via Michigan.

It was the British crown interests which created the Syndicate of organized crime in the U.S. Through circles later associated with the Cliveden Set in England, Arnold Rothstein secured contracts for delivery of British and Canadian whisky into the U.S. under Prohibition. Bronfman was among the principal Canadian interests collaborating with U.S. organized crime in this whisky smuggling. Rothstein and his successors created organized crime in the U.S. as principally the distribution network for wholesaling Bronfman and allied whisky into the USA.

The other principal center for whisky smuggling was the British West Indies.

The financial side of the operation developed then is crucial for understanding U.S. organized crime today. British and Canadian exporters operated through prepayment of deliveries to smugglers. This system of prepayment centered around key U.S.-based "bag men," who conducted vast amounts of U.S. dollars in cash to Canadian and British West Indies suppliers. This cash was then laundered through Canadian and British West Indies banks, generating billions aggregately in Prohibition "black funds" flowing into British and Canadian accounts. Applying reverse leverage, British intelligence services used this arrangement to sort out U.S. organized crime, buying the elimination of those gang leaders who threatened to be obstacles to this ordering of affairs.

During the late 1920s, the U.S. suffered its first important illegal drug problem as the same British networks conducting illegal whisky added heroin and cocaine to their export lines. The same conduits, including the same "bag men" and financial arrangements, were used. The bulk of this traffic was controlled from Canada, which coordinated opium traffic from the British "golden triangle" banks of Shanghai, Hong Kong, and Singapore. The British West Indies banks soon picked up the drug traffic, also running cocaine and opium products through the whisky-smuggling conduits. This latter development became the "silver triangle" of the international drug traffic.

The combined, British-controlled, West Indies and Canadian drug traffic into the U.S. nets British and allied banks tens of billions of dollars in "black funds" annually, and represents a greater drain on the U.S. balance of payments position than the legal balance of trade deficit.

This British Caribbean drug traffic is a major element in regional, Latin American politics. The Cuban right-wing exile groups, whose operational funds for the "Bay of Pigs" operation were largely controlled through Bimini, are essentially a Latin Mafia, engaged in drug smuggling, terrorism, and simple gangsterism for the British-Canadian intelligence services.

For example, the cases of Mexico and Colombia. The Mexican heroin and marijuana production (Mexico used to supply 75 percent of U.S. marijuana consumption) and the Mexican side of illegal drug traffic internationally, is conducted by a hard core within the so-called "Monterrey group." The Monterrey group, whose local watering-place is the Sodom-and-Gomorrah side of Acapulco's life, and which also deploys out of Cuernavaca, is a Black Maltese circle whose immediate political lineage traces back directly to the puppet Hapsburg emperor, Maximilian. This group has direct links to the fascist international through such celebrities as Beatrice of Savoy and through Hapsburg channels. Not accidentally, its favorite "economist" is Milton Friedman, best known U.S. spokesman for the pro-fascist Mont Pelerin Society, a semi-secret intelligence organization of the Black Maltese forces.

Under President Echeverria and President López Portillo, Mexico, in cooperation with U.S. law enforcement officials, reduced heroin and marijuana production and traffic in Mexico to the point that Mexico presently contributes 10 percent of the U.S. marijuana consumption. Loaned U.S. aircraft spotted the crops and destroyed the drug crops with paraquat sprays; the Mexican government moved in otherwise to confiscate the estates of members of the Monterrey faction caught in the act of producing and trafficking in illegal drugs.

Under pressure from Senator Percy (R-Ill.), who has condemned such use of paraquat as dangerous, U.S. law enforcement officials are hesitant to continue to cooperate with foreign governments against the drug traffic. Senator Edward Kennedy's promotion of "drug decriminalization" means billions of profits contributing to the Canadian and British banks and Kennedy family financial interests — and corresponding losses in the U.S. balance of payments, to say nothing of destruction of U.S. youth. So, the U.S. and Colombian government are blocked by Percy and Kennedy in preventing a $6 billion (wholesale, FOB) marijuana crop (120,000 tons; $35-60 billion U.S. street value) from being smuggled into the USA this year. It is the Brzezinski-Kissinger-favored forces in Colombia who control the marijuana and cocaine traffic from and through Colombia.

The faction involved in the Colombian drug traffic is, as in Mexico, the faction connected to the Black Maltese networks. As in other cases, the bulk of the "black funds" involved in this Caribbean traffic generally are run through British, Canadian, and West Indies banks — over $20 billion annually, sufficient to prove the total, witting complicity of the Canadian and British West Indies banks in coordinating this illegal drug traffic.

The Environment of Murder

The facts investigated by Attorney Garrison, added to the facts otherwise surviving cross-checks, give us an environment of conspiratorial deployments around the Kennedy assassination. Cuban right-wing forces, "Mafia" forces, Zionist factions linked to cooperation with the "fascist international," the "fascist international" itself, and assorted bizarre figures scattered amid the collection. All of these forces have a common denominator, a common "mother." That "mother" is the British intelligence services, with emphasis on its Canadian-Caribbean, drug-laden forward bases of operations against the U.S.

The issue of which two or three professional snipers actually pulled the triggers is of secondary importance. Assigned assassins are merely instruments. In an assassination, the crucial issue is who hired the assassin? In the Kennedy case, the issue takes the form of who deployed the indicated combination of forces against a targeted Kennedy? The special circumstances of the case, with emphasis on the way in which the "cover-up" used prepared "patsy" Oswald, removes any possibility that the assassins employed were deployed by any other forces than those which otherwise mobilized the preparations and supporting, "environmental" deployments.

Once the motive for a British monarchy commitment to assassination of President Kennedy is developed, all the essential mysteries of the Kennedy assassination vanish accordingly. Kennedy's firing of "that lunatic" Henry A. Kissinger, and Harold MacMillan's memoirs provide us with direct indications of the relevant motivation.

The Kennedy Branch of the Cecil Tribe

Now, let us consider, summarily, the sort of evidence which frustrates the police intelligence-grade investigator. Investigating the Kennedy family background — and the current policies of British agent-of-influence Senator Edward Kennedy — the investigator finds it monstrously incredible to propose that the British monarchy might have wished to assassinate President Kennedy.

From young manhood, Joseph P. Kennedy, Sr. was a cultivated, and well-rewarded protégé of two elements of the most powerful British oligarchist circles. On the side of the British aristocracy itself, the family of Joe Kennedy, Sr. was intermarried with the most powerful family among the British nobility, the Cecils. The source of the Kennedy wealth was generically through Rothschild patronage, and most immediately through Lazard Brothers, Ltd. of London.

Up to the outbreak of World War II, Joe Kennedy was socially and politically allied with the pro-Nazi Cliveden Set, dropping his pro-Nazi views under heavy pressure from President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and becoming anti-Hitler at about the same time Winston Churchill dropped his own pro-Nazi views.

Joe Kennedy's sons were educated under the sponsorship of John Wheeler-Bennett. During the 1920s, 1930s and early 1940s, Wheeler-Bennett was the leading British agent responsible for subversive operations against the United States. Later, at Harvard, the Kennedy boys came under the background guidance of William Yandell Elliott, Wheeler-Bennett's chief subordinate in British subversive operations inside the United States. The Kennedys were also tied to Lord Beaverbrook, the key operative guiding subversion of the United States via Canadian channels. Such elements of political pedigree go on and on, without falling to second-rate or third-rate levels of importance to the same effect.

Almost everything in John F. Kennedy's track record in the House of Representatives and Senate up to his 1960 election conformed to every turn in Britain's policies for the U.S. Once installed — with aid of massive vote fraud arranged by his backers — Kennedy's appointments, with a few exceptions, were all hard-core British agents-of-influence. Even the exceptions to this, including Dean Rusk, had venerable outward British credentials. The most outrageous feature of the Kennedy government was the cooptation of Britain's Sir David Ormsby-Gore (currently Lord Harlech) to the top strategic policy body, the ExComm. Lord Harlech, a Cecil and an in-law of the Kennedys by marriage, is currently the official representative of Kennedy political interests in Britain.

That gives a general picture of the reasons the police intelligence specialist objects strenuously at first to the notion that the British monarchy arranged the Kennedy assassination. It is Kennedy's firing of "that lunatic" Henry A. Kissinger and the grim observations Harold MacMillan — another Kennedy in-law — incorporates in his memoirs, which should help to open the investigator's eyes to the reality of the matter.

The Motive

Despite Kennedy's monstrous political pedigree, he began to show signs — in British eyes — of a dangerous shift toward the kind of anti-British policies President Franklin Roosevelt had advanced against Winston Churchill during World War II. In the Berlin Crisis, in the final settlement of the Cuba Missile Crisis, and in the directions of Kennedy foreign policy after the Missile Crisis, Kennedy moved toward policies corresponding to vital United States interests. The British grew increasingly bitter, and even downright threatening — as MacMillan's memoirs underline that point.

Soon, the deployment preparatory to the Kennedy assassination was in motion. Months later, President Kennedy was dead. The forces deployed were of the general identities we have indicated above.

British Assassination Policy

The first error of the congressional committee of inquiry was its failure to order opening and review of the suppressed, secret War Department files on the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln. These files are effectively sealed, presumably in vital U.S. national security interests, more than a century after Lincoln's death. Granted, if opened and properly studied, they would, even today, blow apart the "Eastern Establishment" of the United States, and would fundamentally alter U.S. relations with both Canada and Britain. A study of the Lincoln assassination — even without the additional aid of the suppressed War Department files — yields certain conclusive findings and casts direct light on the facts of the Kennedy assassination.

The British intelligence service has more than two centuries of regular practice of the assassination of heads of state, and other prominent officials and figures, of many nations. In the cases of the United States' Presidents who have died before completing their terms of office, the British assassinated two Whig Presidents by poisoning, assassinated Abraham Lincoln, and assassinated President William McKinley. A British assassination of President Kennedy had ample precedents.

The opening of the suppressed Lincoln assassination files would have the useful effect of clearing the Congressmen's minds on the matter of how to view the sort of problem the President Kennedy assassination poses for their consideration. The Lincoln case also has the special merit of anticipating how and why investigators purportedly serving the Warren Commission covered up the truth concerning the Kennedy assassination. Lincoln and Kennedy were as opposite as good and evil in their manifest characters and political outlooks, but the reasons for, methodological approach to, and cover-up of their assassinations were otherwise almost identical.

The British monarchy has been in fact the dedicated principal enemy of the United States from 1776 to the present day. From 1776 through 1863, British policy was governed by the objective of reconquest — to which purpose subversion projects, such as the Jackson, van Buren, and Buchanan Administrations, were merely contributory exertions. Union military-industrial strength, combined with a Lincoln alliance to Czar Alexander II, caused the British to abandon their military-reconquest ambitions permanently in 1863. From 1863 through the McKinley assassination, Britain concentrated on wrecking U.S. national credit, and placing the U.S. economy under financial control of the City of London. At the turn of the century, under the guidance of Lord Milner and the emerging Round Table organization, the British adopted and implemented the "geopolitical" policy, in which the United States figured as the subverted "dumb giant" sacrificing itself to preserve a new, "neo-colonialist" form of the British Empire globally.

What the British hate in the United States is our heritage from the English Commonwealth. The principal American colonies were created and settled by the Commonwealth Party, and the American Revolution was, in its most essential features, a new English Civil War, between the American republicans and the British oligarchy, a replication of the war between the Commonwealth "New Model Army" and the profeudalist cavaliers under Stuart leadership.

The issue of this continuing war between America and the British monarchy actually dates from 1593. At that date, the Cecil family, including Francis Bacon, succeeded in grabbing control of the British Secret Intelligence Service, ousting the humanist forces. The Cecils, agents of the Genoa bankers, were thus agents for the "black nobility" of Italy and that nobility's financial allies. The Cecils, seizing power under an aging Elizabeth I, brought the Genoese-puppet family, the Stuarts, into the succession to the throne. These Cecils, today the powerful, oligarchical in-laws of the Kennedy family, were the leading enemies of the Commonwealth and have been among the most deadly of the consistent aristocratic enemies of the United States to date.

The Rothschilds, the Lazards, the Samuels, the Warburgs, and so forth, the Jewish element of the City of London, is a relative upstart in the command of the monarchy's forces. Originally, it was the Genoese "Black Guelph" financier faction which controlled Genoa, Geneva, Amsterdam, and London. It was Amsterdam-linked entities such as the British East India Company, the Levant Company, and later, Barings and the Hudson's Bay Company, which controlled the finances of monarchical England from the Stuart accession onward. The financial interests of Geneva, Amsterdam, and London have been a single force for evil in the world from the overthrow of Oldenbarnevelde and the Stuart accession (1603) to the present day. The Rothschilds, Lazards, Oppenheimers, Warburgs, and so forth become powerful in London only as the accession of the Hannoverian family of Mr. George Guelph squatted its disgusting self upon the British throne, and thus attracted the Hofjuden of the German baronies into the London financial centers.

What the British monarchy has feared since 1776, and especially since the 1780-1783 period of the League of Armed Neutrality, is that a United States dedicated to scientific and technological progress would serve as a lever for promoting an alliance among European continental powers won and dedicated to the same policy. As the United States grew in power, especially after the events of 1863 and the U.S. alliance with Russia, this British fear of the United States' constitutional commitment to scientific and technological progress became a most-ugly obsession.

The British presumed that they were on the way to geopolitical success in subverting the U.S. after Teddy Roosevelt's "trust-busting" campaign broke the power of U.S. industrial interests, in favor of the British-influenced and British-allied New York City financier interests. The Federal Reserve System, nominally a Warburg creation, promised to keep control of U.S. credit in pro-British hands, and U.S. capital-formation rates relatively depressed. Colonel House was a Warburg protégé and thus axiomatically a British puppet. Woodrow Wilson was a disturbed, and manipulable puppet of Colonel House.

Then, after his 1940 election to a third term, President Franklin Roosevelt announced to an apoplectic Winston Churchill that not only was the United States not going to war to save the British Empire, but that the post-war world would be ordered according to the American System of exporting high-technology and related, massive development projects to the former colonies and semi-colonies. Anglophile elements in the U.S. government and policy-circles kept Roosevelt hemmed in. British interests shrewdly selected the peppery, but ignorant and suggestible Harry S. Truman as Roosevelt's Vice-President (and manifest successor). After Roosevelt's death, British agent-of-influence Jimmy Byrnes nicely steered dumb Harry into the policies Churchill prescribed. Nonetheless, Roosevelt had threatened to use the power of the United States to assert true U.S. vital interests. That was intolerable in British eyes.

Eisenhower's Atoms for Peace policy was a massive slap in the face to the antitechnology British, a fresh assault on British neocolonialist policy of relative labor-intensive backwardness for the debt-ridden developing sector. Eisenhower's crushing of the British, Israelis, and Britain's French Fourth Republic puppets in the 1956 Suez Crisis was an affront the British never forgave.

Kennedy was rushed into the White House, with aid of shamelessly massive vote frauds. Then, emphasized by Kennedy's firing of Henry A. Kissinger on grounds of certifiable lunacy, and Kennedy's deepening conflicts with Britain's Harold MacMillan, the British were confronted with the prospect that John and Robert Kennedy might portend a 12 to 18 year dynasty. If Kennedy were veering toward an anti-British independence in U.S. foreign policy, if Kennedy's domestic policies were portended by the promotion of the NASA project and the pro-industrial growth accelerated-depreciation policy, then the Kennedys portended to become in fact the menace to British neocolonialist interests which Roosevelt had avowed himself to become, and which Eisenhower had threatened to become.

Kennedy's assassination solved that immediate problem for the British monarchy.

Did Kissinger Kill Kennedy?

According to responsible observers, Henry A. Kissinger was by no means saddened by President Kennedy's assassination. Rather, Kissinger informed his Harvard listeners, Kennedy had been a menace to U.S. national security. Kennedy's responsiveness to the vital interests of the United States as a nation committed to scientific and technological progress was, in Kissinger's eyes, a menace to the British monarchy's security. Therefore, it was a menace to the British interests in the U.S. Since Henry is pure British agent down to that mass of brindle-colored self-hatred he calls his soul, Kennedy was, in his outlook, a traitor to the British monarchy.

In the course of the past decade, Kissinger has gained notoriety as a bloody assassin. Together with his Black Maltese masters, Kissinger joined in the selection of avowed pro-Nazi Pinochet as "his man" for the 1973 Chilean coup, and Kissinger personally administered that coup as a "desk job." In more recent times, under Ford, Kissinger deployed Cuban right-winger Bosch to blow up a Cubana airline's plane, killing nearly a hundred passengers in that act of terrorism. Every principal government in the world has the mass of evidence in hand proving that Kissinger directed that operation. He not only ordered it, but ran that bit of bloody work as a personal "desk job."

The assassination of Aldo Moro was part of a "Kissinger scenario" for Italy. Moro cooperated with Andreotti against both "Black Maltese" Fanfani and the Lombardi-Craxi leadership of the Socialist Party of Italy, wrecking Kissinger's plan to bring down the Andreotti government. Kissinger et. al. ordered a new attack on the Andreotti government, his collaborators choosing Aldo Moro over alternate kidnapping-assassination choice Enrico Berlinguer, intending to use the prolonged "hostage" scenario as a way of destabilizing the Andreotti government. Pope Paul VI intervened directly to strengthen the Andreotti government's resistance to the proterrorist pressures of Craxi and the Fanfanians, and Kissinger's game was defeated. Moro's brutal murder mobilized patriotic forces in Italy to go after those "men above suspicion" coordinating the terrorist deployments.

To our present knowledge, only key Black Maltese working in cooperation with Israeli intelligence actually ran the top-most direct features of the Moro kidnapping-assassination. Although the whole operation was run under the auspices of Kissinger's policy, there is as yet no direct indication in our hands that he ran that as a personal "desk job."

The point is that Kissinger has presently all the habits required to have run an operation such as the Kennedy assassination. Furthermore, since Henry's global politics are dominated by his paranoid sort of personal resentments, a 1978 Henry Kissinger would have had adequate personal motivation in 1963 for wishing to be directly involved in coordinating the assassination of a John F. Kennedy.

One thing Kissinger can not endure is even the word "psychoanalysis" applied to his person; Kennedy had had him fired as a lunatic.

Personally, I doubt that Kissinger was involved operationally in that assassination. Not that he lacks the special, snake-like qualifications to run such an operation, but, had he broached the matter to his mentor, Fritz Kraemer, Kraemer would not have trusted a 1963 Henry Kissinger with such an operation. Kissinger was not yet ready for such a caper.

No matter. It was Kissinger's British, Black Maltese patrons who did run the operation. Kissinger concurred with the operation's political objectives.

Since then, no U.S. President has completed two terms in office.

U.S. LABOR PARTY

ALBANY N.Y. (518) 463-2909
ATLANTA GA PO Box 12173, 30355 (404) 266-0744, 266-0745
BALTIMORE MD 2539 St. Paul 21218 (301) 366-8080
BOSTON MASS Rm 230, 120 Boylston St. 02116 (617) 426-7598
BUFFALO NY Rm 926, Ellicott Sq. Bldg. 295 Main St. 14203 (716) 847-2100
CHARLOTTE NC Box 1606 28201
CHICAGO ILL. Rm. 252, 53 W. Jackson Blvd. 60604 (312) 663-3692
CINCINNATI OH Box 8973 45208 (513) 871-8073
CLEVELAND OH Rm. 806, 750 Prospect Ave. E. 44115 (216) 281-3768
DETROIT MI Suites 608, 610, 611, 2011 Park Ave. 48226 (313) 964-2550
GRAND RAPIDS MI (616) 774-2070
HAMMOND IND (219) 931-3252
HARTFORD CT PO Box 6335 Sta. A 06106 (203) 522-9077
LANSING MI (517) 485-8087
LORAIN OH (216) 288-9411
LOS ANGELES CA 3000 W. Eighth, Suite 212 90005 (213) 383-2912
MILWAUKEE WI Box 10195 53210 (414) 447-1763
MUNCIE IND (317) 284-2495
NEWARK NJ 2nd fl., 25 Halsted St. East Orange 07018 (201) 676-1800
NEW YORK NY National Office Box 1972 GPO 10001 (212) 563-8600; Regional Office 231 W. 29 St. 10001 (212) 563-8648
OXFORD OH (Miami U.) (513) 523-8319
PHILADELPHIA PA 1715 Walnut, 2nd. fl. front 19103 (215) 561-5565, 66, 67
PITTSBURGH PA GPO Box 1934 15230 (412) 682-6261
PORTLAND OR Box 14403 97214 (503) 238-0162
RICHMOND VA Box 25803 23260 (804) 233-3556
ROBESON COUNTY NC (919) 422-8326
ROCHESTER NY 644 Averill Ave. 14607 (716) 232-2812
SAN FRANCISCO-BAY AREA CA 1724 Sacramento St. 94109 (415) 928-3070
SEATTLE WA Room 209, 71 Columbia St. 98104 (206) 622-7922, 23
ST. LOUIS MO Box 3011 63130 (314) 752-2186
TACOMA WA PO Box 506 98401 (206) 272-7642
TOLEDO OH 1004 Front St. 43605 (419) 698-2781
TRENTON NJ P.O. Box 2494, 08607 (609) 695-0889
WASHINGTON DC 617 K St. NW 20001 (202) 347-5359
WATERTOWN NY (315) 232-2307
WESTCHESTER NY (914) 937-6520
WILMINGTON DE (302) 798-0548

Campaigner Special Report is published by Campaigner Publications, Inc., 231 West 29th Street, New York, New York 10001. Address all correspondence to Campaigner Publications, Inc. G.P.O. Box 1920, New York, New York 10001

Campaigner Special Report No. 20: Kennedy Murder Conspiracy Out Into Open

Copyright © 1978 Campaigner Publications, Inc.

Copies of this Special Report may be ordered from:

Campaigner Publications, Inc.

G.P.O. Box 1920, NY, NY 10001

Price: $1.50 postpaid PRINTED IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA